Object & Reasons ▼

Amendment Act 52 of 1974-Statement of Objects and

Reasons.-The various measures, both administrative and legal, taken by Government from time to time to prevent smuggling of goods into or out of India and to check diversion of foreign exchange from official channels have been under constant review. Unless the links which facilitate violations of foreign exchange regulations and smuggling activities are disrupted by immobilising by detention of persons engaged in these operations, anti-smuggling measures would not have a substantial impact. Hence the President promulgated on the 17th September, 1974 the Maintenance of Internal Security (Amendment) Ordinance, 1974. In the light of experience gained and keeping in view the distinct class of persons to be covered, this Bill seeks to replace the said Ordinance by a new and self-contained Act.

Amendment Act 35 of 1975-Statement of Objects and

Reasons.-Smuggling, foreign exchange racketeering and related activities have a deleterious effect on the national economy and thereby a serious adverse effect on the security of the State. The Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974, was enacted to immobilise by detention the persons engaged in this operations and to disrupt the machinery established for furthering smuggling and foreign exchange manipulations, with all their ramifications. The effective administration and realisation of the purposes of the Act have been rendered difficult by reason of the clandestine manner in which the persons engaged in these operations carry on their activities and the consequent difficulty in securing sufficient evidence to simply with the rigid standards insisted upon by Courts. Some persons against whom orders of detention were made under the Act had to be released because the orders of detention were held to be void as some of the grounds of detention were considered by Courts to be vague, irrelevant or otherwise invalid. In a few cases difficulties were experienced in the administration of the Act by reason of the detenus obtaining release on bail or otherwise.

2. Some of the persons engaged in smuggling and foreign exchange racketeering have been posing a serious threat to the economy and to the security of the nation owing to their large resources and influence. In the present emergency, the disclosure of grounds of detention to such persons and compliance with the usual procedure of references to Advisory Boards would not be in the large interests of the nation.

3. In view of the urgency of the matter, the President promulgated on the 1st July, 1975, the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (Amendment) Ordinance, 1975 to remove the aforementioned difficulties and to make special provisions in respect of persons whose detention is necessary for dealing effectively with the emergency.

Amendment Act 20 of 1976-Statement of Objects and Reasons.-The provisions of the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974 have had a salutary effect and have been very useful in combating smuggling. However, for maintaining the results achieved and for making the provisions of the Act more effective, it became urgently necessary towards the end of last year to modify the maximum periods of detention provided under the Act and to secure for a further period of two years the availability of the special provisions of section 9 of the Act relating to smuggling operations in areas highly vulnerable to smuggling. Hence, the President promulgated on the 12th December, 1975 the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (Second Amendment) Ordinance, 1975.

2. The Ordinance amended section 9 of the principal Act to make the provisions of the section applicable in respect of persons ordered to be detained before the 31st December, 1977. The Ordinance also modified the maximum periods of detention provided in section 10 of the Act so as to provide that so long as the Proclamations of Emergency issued on the 3rd December, 1971 and the 25th June, 1975 are both in operation, the maximum period shall be as originally provided in that section or the period during which both the aforementioned Proclamations are in operation, whichever is later. The Ordinance also made a special provision for containing the detention of persons already ordered to be detained for the maximum periods as originally provided in the Act.

3. In addition to replacing the Ordinance, the Bill seeks to amend section 12 of the Principal Act so that the Central Government can also have power to order the temporary release of persons detained under orders of the State Government or State Government officer.

Amendment Act 90 of 1976-Statement of Objects and Reasons.-The special provisions for dealing with emergency contained in section 12-A of the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974, have proved helpful in dealing effectively with persons engaged in smuggling and foreign exchange racketeering who, owing to their large resources and influence, have been posing a serious threat to the economy, and thereby to the security of the nation. These provisions would have ceased to have effect on the expiry of twelve months from the 25th day of June, 1975. The powers under these provisions have strengthened the hands of Government considerably. There would have been a serious set back to the anti-smuggling operations if the provisions had been allowed to lapse. Hence, the President promulgated on the 16th June, 1976, the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (Amendment) Ordinance, 1976 to extend the period of operation of the said provisions so as to provide that the provisions shall have effect for a period of twenty-four months (instead of twelve months) from the 25th day of June, 1975 or the period of operation of the Proclamation of Emergency issued in 1971, or the period of operation of the Proclamation of Emergency issued in 1975, whichever is the shortest. The Ordinance also provided for the continuance of the declarations made under the said provisions before the commencement of the Ordinance and in force immediately before such commencement.

Amendment Act 58 of 1984-Statement of Objects and Reasons.-The provisions of the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974, have had a deterrent effect and had been useful in combating smuggling activities. However, in view of the recent trends in smuggling activities, as indicated by the intelligence received, seizures made, etc., specially in the highly vulnerable areas of the west coast, south-eastern coast, India-Pakistan boarder and Delhi airport, it became urn entry necessary to secure the availability of the special provisions of section 9 of the Act relating to smuggling operations in areas highly vulnerable to smuggling. Section 9 of the Act was available only in respect of detention orders made at any time before the 31st day of December, 1977. It was also felt necessary to redefine "areas highly vulnerable to smuggling" so as to cover the aforesaid areas. Hence, the President promulgated on the 13th July, 1984, the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (Amendment) Ordinance, 1984.

2. The Bill seeks to replace the abovementioned Ordinance and to provide that the amended provisions of section 9 will be applicable only to orders of detention made at any time before the 31st July, 1987.

Amendment Act 23 of 1987-Statement of Objects and Reasons.-The Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974 provides for preventive detention of persons in certain cases for the purposes of conservation and augmentation of foreign exchange and for prevention of smuggling activities.

2. Section 9 of the Act deals with the detention of any person who is engaged in smuggling activities in areas highly vulnerable to smuggling and such areas have been indicated in the section itself. Under the provisions of this section, detentions made for activities committed in such areas can be up to a maximum period of two years if a declaration is made under that section while for detentions for such activities committed in other areas, the maximum period of detention under the Act will be for a period of one year only. This section, however, could apply only in respect of detention orders made before the 31st of July, 1987. A comparative analysis of the figures in regard to seizures of contraband goods effected in the said highly vulnerable areas during the last three years had revealed that the menace of smuggling has not abated in any way in the said areas. The longer period of detention for a period of two years Wider this section has, however, proved to be a deterrent effect on these smugglers and this provision had also been effectively used in combating smuggling activities in these highly vulnerable areas. It was, therefore, considered necessary to continue the provisions of this section even in respect of detention orders which may be passed after 31-7-1987. Accordingly, the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (Amendment) Ordinance, 1987 was promulgated by the President on the 2nd July, 1987 to continue the provisions of section 9 of the Act for a further period of three years beyond 31st July, 1987.

Amendment Act 27 of 1990-Statement of Objects and

Reasons.-The Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974 provides for preventive detention of persons in certain cases for the purposes of conservation and augmentation of foreign exchange and for prevention of smuggling activities.

2. Sub-section (1) of section 9 of the Act provides that any person in respect of whom order of detention is made any time before the 31st day of July, 1990, may be detained without obtaining the opinion of an Advisory Board for a longer period than three months but not exceeding six months from the date of his detention. However, a comparative analysis of the figures in regard to seizures of contraband goods effected in the highly vulnerable areas during the last two years shows that the menace of smuggling has not abated in any way in the said areas. Since the maximum damage to the society is caused by the smugglers operating in the highly vulnerable areas, the longer period of detention from one to two years under section 10 of the Act, of the smugglers, their associates and the links, is a necessary deterrent. It was, therefore, considered necessary to continue the provisions of section 9 in respect of detention orders which may be passed even after 31-7-1990.

3. Accordingly, the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (Amendment) Ordinance, 1990 (5 of 1990) was promulgated by the President on the 30th July, 1990 to continue the provisions of section 9 of the Act for a period of three years beyond 31st July, 1990.

Amendment Act 52 of 1993-Statement of Objects and

Reasons.-The Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities Act, 1974 provides for preventive detention of persons in certain cases for the purposes of conservation and augmentation of foreign exchange and for prevention of smuggling activities.

2. Sub-section (1) of section 9 of the Act provides that any person who smuggles or is likely to smuggle goods or abets or is likely to abet the smuggling of goods or engages or is likely to engage in transporting or concealing or keeping smuggled goods in any area highly vulnerable to smuggling and in respect of whom an order of detention is made at any time before the 31st day of July, 1993, may be detained without obtaining the opinion of an Advisory Board for a period longer than three months but not exceeding six months from the date of his detention. The maximum period of detention specified in section 10 of the Act in such cases is two years. However, the menace of smuggling has not abated in any way despite the import of 5 kgs. of gold and 100 kgs. of silver per passenger allowed by Government on payment of nominal customs duty in convertible foreign exchange. Moreover, the recent smuggling of deadly RDX explosives emphasises the need to continue the longer period of detention of two years as against the normal period of detention up to one year, in the case of arms, ammunition, explosives and terrorist-related cases as also in the case of kingpins, organised smugglers and financiers operating behind the scene threatening the security of the country. Since the maximum damage to the society is caused by the smugglers operating in the highly-vulnerable areas, the longer period of detention of up to two years under sections 9 and 19 of the Act, of the smugglers, their associates and the links, is a necessary deterrent. It was, therefore, considered necessary to continue the provisions of section 9 in respect of detention orders which may be made even after 31st July, 1993.

3. Accordingly, the Conservation of Foreign Exchange and Prevention of Smuggling Activities (Amendment) Ordinance, 1993 (Ord. 26 of 1993) was promulgated by the President on the 25 June, 1993 to continue the; provisions of section 9(1) of the Act for a period of three years beyond 31st July, 1993.
